NOVEMBER 30, 2018 | WASHINGTON, DC

Join Us in Reinvigorating the Global Health Agenda

Global Health Council (GHC) is proud to announce that the 2018 Global Health Landscape Symposium (GHLS18) will take place November 30, 2018 in Washington, DC. This one-day meeting will convene policy and program leads from global health organizations across multiple sectors. It will encourage crucial conversations that drill down on barriers and best practices to address changes in the global health landscape. Speakers and participants will be asked to propose both aspirational ideas and pragmatic solutions for the benefit of people served by nonprofit organizations, for-profit corporations, and government institutions.

We came together at last year's annual thought leadership symposium in anticipation of funding and political trends, but this year we will reinvigorate our advocacy agenda to address these changes to the global health landscape head on. Key objectives at this year's event include allowing GHC members and partners to identify inroads and strategies that bolster global health investments and leadership, discuss setbacks to global health support, acknowledge constraints or limitations of the current environment, anticipate other forthcoming changes to the global health landscape, to commit to evolve, and to gain information and tools to inform future planning and advocacy.
