What is the Global TB Caucus?

- The Global TB Caucus is an international network of parliamentarians who are committed to the fight against tuberculosis (TB).
- The Vision of the Caucus is a world free from TB.
- The parliamentarians work in partnership to build the political will to achieve that vision.
- It was launched in 2014 and has hundreds of parliamentarians as members.
HOW DOES IT WORK?

We know that ending the TB epidemic requires taking action at local, regional and global levels.

At the global level, the Global TB Caucus regularly comes together to hold meetings to discuss global priorities in the fight against TB, the Global TB Summit and the latest developments towards ending TB.

At a regional level, the Parliamentarians are organised into regional TB caucuses. These drive regional action, support national All-Party Groups, and ensure that the Global TB Caucus is truly representative of parliamentarians from across the world.

At a national level, they work to support the establishment of national All-Party Parliamentary Groups on TB. In this they rely heavily on the support of local civil society who have the knowledge and the expertise to tackle the epidemics in their own countries.
Parliamentarians from all over the world have joined the Caucus.

To check whether your country has joined: www.globaltbcaucus.org

If no Parliamentarians in your country have joined, why not write them a letter, introduce yourself, and ask them to join.
HOW CAN I ENGAGE WITH THEM?

- Write a letter to the parliamentarians – telling them about your work
- Ask to meet with them – visit them in their electorate or parliamentary office to brief them on the issues
- Engage with the Secretariats of the TB Caucus – find out what is happening in your country and region and how you can be involved
